The matter of financing the military work in the state in connection with troop mobilization presents a serious problem. This is due to the fact that the expense makes a real emergency for which the state is ill prepared under the appropriation plan. The emergency fund for the fiscal year has been dissipated for matters that did not constitute real emergencies and a high record over former years established. It was used to pay salaries of additional men selected in the various departments and to make up the deficit caused in the mismanagement of the state fair last year. Short-sightedness in the appropriations for various activities and the need to make up losses in the board of administration also depleted the fund.

Some months ago when it was seen that the emergency fund was being so badly bankrupted that there would be trouble in a real emergency such as the flood in the Cox administration, or general riots, in the public prints a citizen of the state called the attention of Governor Willis to what might happen, and for his pains he drew from the governor the undignified description, "an insignificant little squirt." The dissipation of funds went merrily on.

Now there is talk of a special session of the legislature to take up the matter. The situation will be saved only if there is need for a hurried movement of troops and the consequent mustering in of Ohio militia as federal soldiery.

It pays Republicans to have a stand in with the state administration, as evidenced by latest recognition of Sherman A. Cuneo, who has just been appointed assistant state fire marshal at $2,400 a year. The job has been withheld from others until Cuneo got ready for it. Cuneo has just retired as secretary of the Panama-Pacific exposition commission. He is not expected to have much to do as an official but it was desired to keep him on the governor's publicity staff. Dr. Clarence Maria, the journalist who gave his time freely to state Republicanism in the lean years, holds an inferior position on the fire marshal's staff. The best paying jobs have gone to new comers who rode into the inner circle with the Willis accident from the territory contiguous to Ada. While C. C. Waltemire, also of Upper Sandusky, is nominally in charge of the forty press agents the governor has placed on the state pay roll, it is said on the authority of Mr. Cuneo that he will take actual charge in an effort to regain the confidence of Republican papers which has been lost while Mr. Cuneo has been busy engaged on affairs of state. It is understood in Columbus that Cuneo is the confidential representative of Governor Willis. Heretofore he has done his work of publicity from the governor's office.

The sterling service of U. S. Senator Alton Pomerene is gaining for him recognition such as few public men are granted in Washington. In the present stress Senator Pomerene is one of the leaders and it is frankly acknowledged that President Wilson relies on him greatly for advice and assistance. For this reason Ohio will see little of the senator in the preliminary campaign. His friends, however, are active in his behalf and Republicans as well as Democrats who believe in Mr. Pomerene's brand of Americanism and effort will see that his cause is well taken care of. The semblance of opposition is so puny and its motives so well understood that Senator Pomerene profits by the comparison. Meanwhile the Daugherty tactics and the money-dumping campaign make sure that Senator Pomerene will be triumphantly re-elected as he will be enthusiastically renominated.

Results of the second edition civil service examination for heads of the state hospitals at Columbus and Dayton have been announced. Four names from the list have been certified from which appointments are to be made unless again it should appear that the men desired by the governor have failed to get in the favored list. It will be remembered that after the first examination was held under the law it was found that the "right" men had not been able to pass and the obliging civil service commission voided the examination as having been "too technical." At that time Dr. E. H. Rorick, alienist member of the board of administration, said that even he would have been unable to pass the examination, thus admitting incompetency. He is still on the job, however, and will pass on the competency of men who did not pass the examination.

Woodrow Wilson's slogan of "America First," enunciated in the address before the Daughters of the American Revolution in May, was adopted by the colonel a week later and by Hughes a month later. November is the first date when the American people will have the opportunity to give it a general endorsement.

"There is not a real reactionary holding credentials in this convention," shouted Senator Harding in his keynote speech at Chicago. And Boies Penrose, W. Murray Crane, Reed Smoot and Charles D. Hilles, at that moment holding a whispered conference on the same platform, never cracked a smile.

Shadow of hopelessness predominated at the Republican state convention. The intention was to pussy-foot on state issues and dwell on national developments have shown it is "Wilson unbeatable." As for Willis and state issues—that's a joke.

Deserted by their leaders, the 4,000,000 Progressives of 1912 have the chance to endorse in November the Wilson administration which has put into law a score of the principal measures demanded by the Progressive platform.

It only required a national convention of the opposition party to make it conclusive that not a single honest issue can be raised against the reelection of Woodrow Wilson and the continuation of Democracy in power.

We note that Candidate Hughes favors an expansion of our foreign trade. Under Wilson this fiscal year, our foreign trade will exceed five billion dollars, a 300 per cent increase.

Desperate must be the condition of that party which would invade the supreme court of the United States in order to get a candidate whom they could trust.

As "Big Business" drops its generous donations into the Hughes-Fairbanks contribution box, it murmurs sotto voce: "Silence is golden!"

Having slain his Chicago moose and African lion, the Moses of the Progressive party will now retire to the bull-rushes.

The standard-bearer's first step was to rush to the councils of the Old Guard in New York for his instructions.

JOINED

THE BEST-APPEARANCE SQUAD OF EAGLES ALTHOUGH HIS FACE WAS BADLY CUT—LING UNFORTUNATE.

In a hurry to get his coat in order to join the Eagles' parade Thursday, Harry Ling had the misfortune to walk through a door at his home on South Main street, the broken glass badly cutting his left cheek and nose. It is little short of miraculous that a piece of the glass did not enter Mr. Ling's eye, so close did it come to the socket. At the time the accident occurred, Mr. Ling was talking to a neighbor who told him to hurry up if he expected to be in the parade. His attention thus diverted, he did not notice that the door at his home was closed and walked through the glass.

A physician was summoned and the cuts were dressed. Mr. Ling was able to go to Newark, although he suffered much pain during the day. The local aerie competed for the best-appearance prize. Ling was joined by his friends on account of his presence in line.

George Beene and son, Herbert, were visitors in Utica on Saturday.

MILITIA READY TO MOBILIZE

All Ohio Organizations Now at Peace Strength.

HEAVY ENLISTMENTS NOTED

Reports From All Over the State to Adjutant General Hough Cause Jubilation Among National Guard Officers—Mobilization Camp Ready For Part of the Troops—Rations Contracted For.

Columbus, June 24.—All organizations in every branch of the service in the Ohio national guard have been recruited up to peace strength and are now ready to mobilize. This fact, made known by reports from all over the state to Adjutant General Hough, caused jubilation among militia officers.

The mobilization camp here will be ready for only part of the troops Monday, so that the bulk of the soldiers will not arrive before Tuesday or Wednesday at best.

Colonel Joseph A. Hall, chief surgeon of the Ohio troops, received from Acting Surgeon General Fisher of the United States army the Ohio consignment of typhoid prophylaxis serum and smallpox vaccine. All troops will be vaccinated against these diseases immediately upon arrival at the mobilization camp. The acting surgeon general was stationed at the Columbus barracks a few years ago.

Word was received that 100 horses were on the way to Ohio from Kansas, and that several trainloads would follow.

Events preparatory to the mobilization moved more rapidly than any day since the issuance of President Wilson's orders. The machinery was operated more smoothly, twice the former number of men were at work at the camp, recruiting officers strained efforts and bigger and better results were attained than on any previous day.

Major A. W. Reynolds of the commissary department awarded contracts for 50,000 rations, the provisions to be delivered at the camp as soon as troops arrive, and made out a list for 100,000 more rations.

The frame buildings completed are a telephone house, the postoffice and three storehouses. There will be ten storehouses in all. Each regiment will have 15 houses for sanitary purposes, 15 kitchens and mess shelters and 10 bathhouses.

AMERICAN FORCE WAS WIPED OUT

Only Seven Stragglers Return to Pershing's Camp.

El Paso, Tex., June 24.—Reports received here in military circles say that the American force which was led into a trap by the Carranza soldiers at Carrizal on Wednesday was practically wiped out.

This information is gained by General Pershing from the stragglers who have returned to his headquarters. It is believed two troops of American cavalry were in the American command, though some officers incline to the belief that not more than one troop was engaged.

The Americans were completely surrounded by Carranza troops during their parley with the Carranza commander. It is reported by those who have returned to the Pershing camp. All the stragglers that have arrived thus far were men who were holding the horses after the cavalrymen had dismounted and come forward.

Captain Boyd had ordered his men to dismount as the machine gun opened fire and the combined effect of the Mexican charge, the machine gun fire and the rifle fire from the Mexicanarrison of Carrizal, which had almost surrounded the little American force under cover of the parley sought by General Gomez to discuss whether Captain Boyd should be allowed to pass through the town, stampeded the horses.

General Funston received orders to organize several new regiments for immediate service in the regular army and begin the work at once. Trained and seasoned regulars will be taken from the present organizations to form a nucleus for the new regiments, and promotions of several hundred officers, together with the entire 1916 class of graduates of West Point, will be used to command the new regiments which will be recruited at once to peace strength, even at the cost of reducing many companies of the present army. When this is done all companies and corps in the army will be recruited to full war strength.

Big Army Contract.

St. Louis, June 24.—The war department has awarded to two St. Louis shoe factories a contract approximating $2,000,000 for army shoes. This contract is for part of the annual purchase of shoes for the army.

SNAPSHOTS AT NOTABLE PERSONS

Louis D. Brandeis, United States Supreme Court.

Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, who was recently appointed an associate justice of the United States supreme court, is the first Jew to receive that distinguished honor. He succeeds the late Associate Justice Joseph R. Lamar of Georgia. The nomination of Justice Brandeis was sent to the senate Jan. 28, and the fight over his confirmation was one of the bitterest in the senate's history.

Early in May President Wilson wrote to Senator Culberson of Texas, giving his reasons for nominating Mr. Brandeis. Among other things he said: "Let me say, by way of summing up, that I nominated Mr. Brandeis for the supreme court because it was and is my deliberate judgment that of all men now at the bar whom it has been my privilege to observe, test and know he is exceptionally qualified. This friend of justice and of men will ornament the high court of which we are all so justly proud. I am glad to have had the opportunity to pay him this tribute of admiration and of confidence."

Justice Brandeis was born of Jewish parents in Louisville, Ky., in November, 1856. He was educated in the public schools and then spent a couple of years in Dresden. Returning to America, he worked his way through the Harvard Law school and received his degree at the age of twenty. He was admitted to the bar in 1878 and began the practice of law in Boston, in which he has won both fame and wealth.

New Head of the Great Northern.

When James J. Hill, the great railroad builder and developer of the northwest, died the direction of the vast Hill interests passed principally to his second son, Louis W. Hill. The younger Hill is just past forty-four, and he has been the head of the Great Northern railroad for fourteen years. A few weeks before his father's death the absolute control of the First National bank of St. Paul also passed to the son. The elder Hill planned a great future for the bank and his policy will be carried out by his successor.

In a recent interview in St. Paul Louis Hill said: "As long as railroads have good credit Wall street will come out here to serve that credit. I do not propose to move to New York. I scarcely know my late father's intimate friends in the east. But I know all his friends, his lieutenants, out here and west and northwest of here, who operate the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy. As long as they are with me and back of me and beside me the Hill properties are safe and sure."

Louis is not the oldest son of James J. Hill. James N. Hill of New York is the first born. There never had been a close bond of sympathy in business affairs between the father and his eldest son.

FOR POTPOURRI.

How to Make a Rose Jar to Last All Next Winter.

Rose potpourri is undoubtedly the favorite, though it is not by any means the sweetest or only kind. To make it is simple. Collect together as many rose petals as possible—those of old fashioned roses for preference—and be sure they are free from blight or disease. A rose garden is not wanted. With a little energy one can collect a lot of rose leaves, especially by getting all one's friends to assist in the task. Dry the petals in the sun and weigh them. Say there is a quarter of a pound of rose leaves. Then mix with them these spices: Two ounces each of common salt and bay salt, one ounce powdered orris root, quarter ounce each of cloves, powdered cinnamon, powdered mace and allspice. Mix together in a jar and keep closely covered, stirring every day for a month.

The following potpourri, one of the most delightful possible, is easier still to make, since all kinds of scented flowers can be used in it—violets, roses, thyme, lemon, verbena, cowslips, lilacs, lilies, lavender, etc. Pull the petals from large flowers and break the heads off the tiny ones and put the flowers into a jar as they are obtained. Between each layer of flowers sprinkle a little common salt, powdered mace and powdered cinnamon—a fairly thick sprinkling, varied according to the quantity of flowers. Keep the jar covered, and when it is full and the flowers all brown and dry stir all together.

The Thrill of Being Wet.

There is something rudimentary and fundamental about having water splashed down upon one and getting completely and deliciously wet—not damp, not moist, but wet, wringing wet. You yourself when a child never enjoyed anything so much as your first drenching in an unforeseen and unavoidable rainstorm—the thrill of being wet, the cool drive of the water on your nose, into your sleeves and down your neck, and the joyous shush of soaked, waterlogged boots. Even the feeling of being rubbed with alcohol, bundled up and warned you would catch your death did not diminish the thrill. You could not better than the time you fell off the boat dock; it lasted longer.—Atlantic Monthly.

INMATES

Of Infirmary Given Treat by W. C. T. U. on Flower Mission Day—Delightful Program of Varied Numbers

The annual outing at the infirmary on Thursday proved a great success. By noon a large crowd had arrived. A cordial welcome by both Supt. Shellenbarger and wife was extended to all.

At the noon hour, while the 54 inmates were at dinner, a committee passed through and to each gave a treat, consisting of an orange, banana, home-made cookies, sack of candy and a bouquet of flowers.

At 2 p. m. the county president, Miss Flora Margubar of Ankenytown, called to order with the inmates near center of hall, that they might both hear and see the speakers. The program follows:

Song, "America"—Audience. Also "Jesus Saviour, Pilot Me." Rev. Whittaker of Mt. Vernon and Rev. Morton of Fredericktown sang a duet which was delightful and appreciated. Rev. S. T. Allen offered an earnest prayer and after the chapter read, explained it so plainly all could comprehend.

Ladies' quartet sang "Lead Us, O Father."

Revs. Whittaker and Morton then sang "The Church in the Wildwood," and responded to an encore.

Recitations by Mildred Kile, Dorothy Critchfield of Mt. Liberty and Eulalia Amos of Fredericktown.

Master Lynn McKinley sang "I Sing Because I'm Happy."

Sextet (in negro dialect)—"De Walls Am Fallin' Down."

Miss Virginia Fawcett of Fredericktown read a humorous selection, "Advantages of Invalidism."

Isaac Miller, an inmate, sang "The Falling Stars," playing his accompaniment on the violin. He also played another selection, imitating a horn.

J. L. McKinley, former superintendent, was called on for remarks. He said Ohio leads in the care given her unfortunates and mentioned the many institutions of the state devoted to their care.

Supt. Shellenbarger thanked the W. C. T. U. for the entertainment given those who have not many pleasures and gave a cordial invitation to come again.

Seven unions of the county were represented. Rev. Allen pronounced the benediction and thus closed another "Flower Mission" day.
